Testimonials

Having worked at a mainstream comprehensive, I was excited to move roles into a smaller Special Needs school in 2020. As the Exams Officer, I am responsible for ensuring all of our learners are fully supported for their exams, whether that being in exam conditions or through coursework.

Castledon is a very supportive employer, which values each of its staff members both inside and outside of the workplace.

- Exams Officer, Castledon School

Having moved from mainstream education to SEND six years ago, I certainly feel I have significantly upskilled during my time at Castledon. I have gained significant knowledge of SEND education and its many teaching and learning strategies whilst thoroughly enjoying the contact with our young people. Students are mostly grateful, receptive and willing to try (even if this means overcoming hurdles and challenges along the way). It is rewarding to know that I am making a difference to the outcomes of so many students and enabling them to achieve their many potentials both academically and socially.

- English Teacher, Castledon School

Since beginning my role as a TA at Castledon school I have had the incredible opportunity to work with amazing young people with special educational needs. The ethos of the school is all about creating a safe, kind, and responsible environment, which is evident as soon as you walk through the door of any classroom! The young people constantly inspire me with their incredible minds and can-do attitude. Even when faced with more challenging situations, it's the concrete relationships established between students and staff that turn it all around. I have been given a plethora of opportunities for training to expand and develop my knowledge and skills around working with SEND students, which is invaluable to my career development within the school. You will always be greeted with a smile and warmth from any member of staff you interact with, and the modelling of this behaviour is reflected in the students alike.

- Teaching Assistant, Castledon School

I completed the last term of my SCITT at Castledon and am now in my second year of being an ECT. The collegiality and expertise of the staff at Castledon has enabled me to develop as a teacher and exposed me to effective strategies when transitioning to SEN. Specialists within the school, as well as dedicated and experienced staff, provide CPD and support for individuals and new staff members so that they can offer the best opportunities and care for the students. As a result, I have grown in confidence in managing the range of needs and adapting to different students accordingly. The positive relationship between staff and pupils is such an important part of the job and being a part of the amazing students' progress at this school is truly rewarding.
